

Goya took up painting in his teens, and after training in Rome, he returned to Spain in 1775 as a young master with great potential.

